

UPMC HEALTH PLAN

Important considerations for employees and their family members:

- If an individual already received a first dose of the vaccine from another provider, they need to return to that provider for their second dose, if applicable.
- Vaccines should not be scheduled within 14 days of receiving any other vaccine (for example the shingles vaccine).
- If an individual received monoclonal antibody infusion treatment or convalescent plasma therapy for COVID-19, they must delay vaccination until 90 days after receiving the treatment.
- If an individual has had anaphylaxis, which is a severe allergic reaction that needs rescue medicines, to other vaccines or injectable treatments, they should delay vaccination until they are cleared by a primary care doctor or allergist.
- Before and after receiving the vaccine, everyone should continue to wear a mask that covers their mouth and nose, practice physical distancing, and wash their hands frequently, as these actions can help prevent the spread of COVID-19 and save lives.
