

A Life Insurance Solution: The Term Rider Advantage

Stacking term coverage can help you purchase the right amount of protection for the right length of time and may be the most cost-effective way to buy insurance.

Olivia is 35 years old and works full-time with her husband to provide for their two young children. She wants to protect her family's income with life insurance coverage, in the event she's no longer around to take care of them.

With the help of an advisor, Olivia determines that she now needs about $1 million of coverage to help pay the mortgage, expenses and college tuition.

In 20 years, her protection needs will be reduced significantly. Both of her children will be out of college and the mortgage paid off, however, she still wants to cover her income and debt through her working years, as well as pay for funeral expenses.

What are the most affordable coverage options for Olivia and her family?

Term life insurance can be purchased in periods of 10 to 40 years and is usually a very budget-friendly option. Insurance is not a one-size-fits-all solution and one way to save is to customize coverage by taking advantage of Term Riders.

- A Term Rider (one or multiple) can be stacked on top of a base term policy for 10, 15 or 20 years.
- Term Riders will automatically drop off at the end of the additional insurance rider coverage period.
- When a Term Rider expires, the premium due and total coverage will be reduced by the Term Rider amount.
